Representation of the data that has to be included in each dataset. Each Rectangle represents one type of data. The black rectangles represent free format data and the blue rectangles represent standardized format data. The list of names associated with the blue rectangles represents the required column names. Each bubble represents the name of the code used to produce the fixed format data.